By speaking about personal experiences, Smith describes his personal encounter with people who don't want to be marketed. When this book was published in 1986, it was the first of its kind to assert that business owners should exploit the market of people who don't want to buy what they sell. This book was popular and because it was a best seller, it was republished in 1988. This book has been read by 20,477 people and it has 82157476af
